

Letters in response to “Best films of 2009 and the decade”

4 January 2010

Here is my Best of 2009 followed by my Best of the decade. I find it hard to whittle down, and it is a whole 10 years, so my decade list is up to 45. I also think some of the boldest film work was done on TV, in the serial form, which allowed for exploration of characters and delineation of social forces—as in The Wire, Deadwood, Six Feet Under, Mad Men, The Sopranos, The Street (British TV), and State of Play (British version).

Best of 2009:

A Serious Man (dir. Joel and Ethan Coen)

Bad Lieutenant: Port of Call New Orleans (dir. Werner Herzog)

Of Time and the City (dir. Terence Davies)

Best of the decade:

3-Iron (Bin-Jip) (dir. Ki-duk Kim)

An interesting selection, but why no mention of George A. Romero's two politically charged horror films, Land Of The Dead and Diary Of The Dead? The first is one of the few (if only films of the decade) to criticize George Bush and the Iraq debacle, albeit in allegorical terms. The second has already been discussed on the WSWS and in letters, in terms of critiquing the power of the image that disavows any form of radical activism.

Flawed list ... Pan's Labyrinth, March of the Penguins, Boy in Striped Pyjamas, and Up in the Air are better than stupid Men Who Stare at Goats.

I agree 2009 and the 2000s in general were a dire time at the movies. And although I haven't seen nearly as many movies as Mr. Walsh and others at the WSWS have from the past decade, I've seen a few hundred and just wanted to share with you three lists I contributed to a thread over at imdb.com about a month ago which I considered represented some stand-outs from the decade. If you'll indulge me:

Ten best films of the 2000s (fiction):

1. Crimson Gold (Jafar Panahi, 2003)
2. Wendy and Lucy (Kelly Reichardt, 2008)
3. Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind (Michel Gondry, 2004)
4. The Assassination of Richard Nixon (Niels Mueller, 2004)
5. Dancer in the Dark (Lars von Trier, 2000)
6. About Schmidt (Alexander Payne, 2002)
7. Oasis (Chang-Dong Lee, 2002)
8. Elephant (Gus Van Sant, 2003)
9. Palindromes (Todd Solondz, 2004)
10. Children of Men (Alfonso Cuaron, 2006)

Honorable Mentions: The Royal Tenenbaums and The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou, both by Wes Anderson; Lost in Translation by Sofia Coppola; Vera Drake by Mike Leigh; The Wrestler by Darren Aronofsky; Beijing Bicycle by Xiaoshuai Wang; and I Heart Huckabees by David O.

Russell.

Ten best documentary films of the 2000s:

1. Touching the Void (Kevin Macdonald, 2003)
2. Capturing the Friedmans (Andrew Jarecki, 2003)
3. Bowling for Columbine (Michael Moore, 2002)
4. Comedian (Christian Charles, 2002)
5. No Direction Home: Bob Dylan (Martin Scorsese, 2005)
6. Grizzly Man (Werner Herzog, 2005)
7. Man on Wire (James Marsh, 2008)
8. Trouble the Water (Carl Deal and Tia Lessin, 2008)
9. Food, Inc. (Robert Kenner, 2008)
10. Fahrenheit 9/11 (Michael Moore, 2004)

Honorable mentions: This Film Is Not Yet Rated by Kirby Dick, Bukowski: Born Into This by John Dullaghan, and Cinemanía by Angela Christlieb and Stephan Kajak.

Ten most overrated films of the 2000s:

- 1-3. Lord of the Rings Trilogy (Peter Jackson, 2001-2003)
4. Donnie Darko (Richard Kelly, 2001)
5. The Departed (Martin Scorsese, 2006)
6. Cache (Michael Haneke, 2005)
7. Notre Musique (Jean-Luc Godard, 2004)
8. Memento (Christopher Nolan, 2000)
9. The Dark Knight (Christopher Nolan, 2008)
10. Moulin Rouge! (Baz Luhrmann, 2001)

Dishonorable mentions: A Beautiful Mind by Ron Howard; Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon by Ang Lee; and anything directed by M. Night Shyamalan.
