

Video: James Cogan answers community questions on the environment

17 August 2010

James Cogan, the SEP candidate for the inner-western Sydney seat of Grayndler, provided video answers to questions on the environment by a local organisation, Climate Action Newtown.

Climate Action Newtown asked for candidate responses to three questions on their parties' positions on a carbon price, new coal fired power stations and a transition plan to 100 percent renewable energy. The answers have been posted to YouTube and are listed on <http://climateactionnewtown.org/>.

The YouTube video of Cogan's answers is below.
