This document was adopted at the founding congress of the SEP held in Manchester, October 22-25, 2010. It reviews and examines the most critical political experiences of the British working class, centering in particular on the post-war history of the Trotskyist movement.

This volume also incorporates the Socialist Equality Party Statement of Principles, outlining the basic conceptions of the SEP and the foundation for membership in the party. It is vital reading for those who wish to gain a deeper understanding of the historical experiences of the workers' movement in Britain, which hold many important lessons for the working class of all countries today.
