14 December 2015

Mehring Books is pleased to announce the publication in two eBook formats of David North's recent book The Frankfurt School, Postmodernism and the Politics of the Pseudo-Left: A Marxist Critique. North is chairman of the WSWs International Editorial Board.

The polemical essays in this volume examine the complex interaction between history, philosophy and politics. The author defends historical materialism against contemporary anti-Marxist philosophical tendencies related to the Frankfurt School and postmodernism.

The book provides critical insight into the philosophical and political issues separating scientific socialism from the ideological tendencies that influence a wide array of pseudo-left and anti-socialist political movements, particularly on today's university campuses.

For those looking for a deeper understanding of the principles of classical Marxism, North defines the historical link from Marx, Engels, Lenin and Trotsky to the International Committee of the Fourth International today.
