30 March 2021

In this video, Texas history teacher Michael Hull and World Socialist Web Site education editor Evan Blake discuss the situation facing educators, parents and students amid the reckless school reopening campaign. A focus of the interview is to follow up on a significant exchange that recently took place between Hull and American Federation of Teachers (AFT) President Randi Weingarten, who has largely orchestrated the school reopening campaign on behalf of the Biden administration.

We encourage our readers to join and participate in the Facebook groups for the Educators Rank-and-File Safety Committee and Teachers Against Dying, and to share this interview widely on social media.
