Last night, the Socialist Equality Party (SEP) in Australia held an online panel discussion featuring the party's candidates for the federal election on Saturday. The candidates addressed questions posed by viewers in the lively text chat, as well as others that have emerged as key issues among workers and young people in the course of the election campaign.

In addition to the candidates, and co-chairs Cheryl Crisp (SEP national secretary) and Tom Peters (Socialist Equality Group New Zealand leader), the meeting was addressed by SEP (US) national secretary Joseph Kishore.

The recorded meeting can be viewed in full below.

Authorised by Cheryl Crisp for the Socialist Equality Party, Level 1/457-459 Elizabeth Street, Surry Hills, NSW, 2010, Australia.
